

Pasquale Ferranti

pasquale.ferranti@unina.it

Pasquale Ferranti is Professor in Food Science and Technology at the Department of Food Science (University of Naples Federico II). He is also Associate Researcher at the Institute of Food Science and Technology of the Italian National Research Council (CNR). He has carried out full-time research at the Imperial College of Technology, London. Prof. Ferranti has developed ongoing relationships with research international institutes participating in research projects of multidisciplinary interest in the field of Food Science. He is author of over 150 research papers on peer reviewed international Journals. Prof. Ferranti has been invited speaker in international meetings on 'omic' sciences and in food science and technology, and invited teacher in international schools.